

Adaptive Ski Lessons at Cascade Mountain

Adaptive skier at Cascade Mountain with snowboarder

I'm wondering how much interest there is in adaptive ski lessons at Cascade Mountain.

Right now, I'm adaptive certified for cognitive and visually impaired. We can do those lessons with minimal or no specialty equipment. I've taught many lessons to people on the autism spectrum (mainly kids and teens). A few others at Cascade teach them as well. We can do those kinds of lessons now.

But, if you are interested in adaptive ski lessons with specialty equipment (mono skis, bi-skis, etc.), please leave a comment below. When you do this, we can start to make the case for the equipment purchase and whatever else (legally) needs to be done.

Original article: <https://www.skiwithtony.com/adaptive-ski-lessons-at-cascade-mountain/>