

Opening Weekend at Cascade 2007

Well, on Friday we got notice that we'd open up the next day so I got up there on Saturday morning and got to ski the 2 full runs that were open. I also got to give 2 lessons as well. The snow was ok, actually. Let's keep these temps going so we can make more snow.

Yeah, my legs are sore. Wow. It's a good sore though. I'm getting into shape at least. I'm looking forward to the season and am getting ready for a trip I just booked to Salt Lake City in January. That'll be my first trip "Out West", so I'm looking forward to it.

Well here are some pictures. Cascade had their annual Turkey Rail Jam, so the snowboarders we having fun there. I hope to do some riding this year, too.

-T

Original article: <https://www.skiwithtony.com/opening-weekend-at-cascade/>