

PSIA Level 2 Book Published!

PSIA Level 2 Study Guide Well, it took some time to put together but I'm proud of it. I have a lot of people to thank for working with me over the years. There's no way I could have reached Level 2 or written the book alone. I'm happy to be able to publish this resource with the hopes of helping others get Level 2 Certification.

The PDF version of this study guide is 69 pages and the Kindle version is 107 pages but it's the same content. The PDF version costs a bit more but you get some nice bonuses, which are well worth the difference in price — plus you get to print it (1 copy) if you want. I know some people would rather have it in print, so that's why I created the PDF version and then I decided to add some more value as well.

Go check it out: My Journey to Level 2 Alpine: What Helped Me Pass the PSIA Level 2 Exam

Acknowledgements

I would like to acknowledge some people who have helped me on my journey so far:

- Erika Meier – Tons of training with me.
- Arnie Wright – Taught me a lot – including the quiver.
- Don Meyer – A wealth of knowledge and funny stories.
- John Hamaker – A good, honest coach that makes you work.
- Kyle Potvin – Great to train with.
- Steve Loehner – Saw the potential in me.
- Michelle Loehner – A great skiing example for me.
- Bruce Van Buren – Makes it all look easy.
- Bob Konen – Shared my journey and was my partner.
- Jamie Reichert – Best après-ski guy and exam roommate around.
- Matt McGinn – Mr. Encouragement
- Doug Trumbower – Responsible for getting me into ski instructing.
- Don Rosine – Nothing gets him down.
- Penny Parsons – Best partner for group lessons.
- Tim Parsons – Good for advice and trays of beer.
- Paul Freeman – Mr. Technical Skier
- Bob Bell – Does more than people half his age.
- Gavril Hristov – Always willing to help and share.
- Glenn Knight – My NASTAR coach.
- Todd Thorn – Announced my race times and gave me advice.
- Sherry McCabe – Failed me twice but that's what I needed.
- Roger Kane – Level 2 Prep and good perspective.
- Josh McConochie – Gave me some days off so I could ski.
- Andrew Reyes – Hooked me up with good lessons.

Additional Exam Notes:
Kyle Potvin

Proofreading:
Arnie Wright
Erika Meyer

Original article: <https://www.skiwithtony.com/psia-level-2-book-published/>